Course Sample

The Global Beauty Makeup Workshop takes you through every aspect of creating polished looks for clients of diverse cultural backgrounds.

Once you've conquered the basics, you'll be ready to handle more challenging looks. Evening looks for deeper skin tones and Bollywood Glamour looks only scratch the surface! Here's a sneak peek at a couple of assignments you'll do for your course.

Unit B: Assignment 2 – Media Makeup for Golden Skin Tones

Makeup artists are highly sought after by television networks and by individual clients making television appearances. With the rise of high-definition television technology, it's essential to create a media makeup look that is full-coverage but flattering. In this assignment, you'll create a media makeup look on a model with a golden or medium brown skin tone.

Here's what you need to do:

1. Take a before shot of your model's face. Ensure the picture is in focus and use natural lighting for the best results.
2. Apply a full-coverage base. Build your base using color corrector, concealer, and foundation. Ensure it doesn't appear heavy or cakey and by thoroughly blending the entire look. A streaky makeup application with noticeable brush strokes will stand out clearly on television.
3. Add blush, eyeshadow, mascara, brow products, and lip color. Other products such as contour and falsies can be added as well.

4. Take a close-up after photo of your model. Frame the photo so it clearly shows your model's entire face.
5. Fill out the Client Card. Be detailed about your chosen products.
6. Ask your model to complete the Model Feedback Form. Your model will evaluate her experience during the application process. Submit this form with your before and after photos.

Why we love it:

Throughout your makeup career, you'll encounter clients with different skin and makeup needs. Especially under the high-definition eye of the latest cameras, every application choice you make will be scrutinized. This assignment provides you with practice in tailoring your makeup application to address your model's skin considerations directly. Best of all, you can assure any client that no matter their skin type and tone, they're in the right hands!

Unit D: Assignment 3 – Indian Bridal Henna

In this assignment, you will practice creating Indian bridal designs on the hand template found in the Online Student Center. This template enables you to perfect your henna designs before working with clients.

Here's what you need to do:

1. Use a filled Henna cone to practice drawing straight lines on a blank piece of paper. Hold the Henna cone like a pencil and apply gentle, consistent pressure. Apply the Henna in smooth, long strokes.
2. Create an Indian bridal design on the "Right Hand – Outside" template shown in Figure 1. Draw the design on the entire hand as if you are completing a bridal application. Create the design freehand rather than using stencils. Be sure to use shapes and symbols that are characteristic of Indian bridal henna. You'll want to work with the fingers of the template pointed towards you since this is the same perspective you'll have when working with real clients. Consider taping the template to the table so that you are not tempted to move it around.

Why we love it:

We can't stress enough the importance of practice when it comes to makeup! This assignment encourages you to perfect the design aspect of Henna application before working on a model where there's bound to be some movement and tricky curves to work with! By studying and practicing Henna step-by-step, you'll exceed your client's expectations. After this unit in the Global Beauty Workshop, you'll become a truly full-service artist who can command a higher salary and work with brides from Indian and South-Asian cultural traditions!
